Dear Tim,
Many congratulations...
A treasure trove of critically important history.
God bless you for documenting so much over the years as you have.
All the best to you.
Your pal,
Gary Sinise

INTERNATIONAL MUSEUM OF WORLD WAR II

The International Museum of World War II welcomes school groups, educators, researchers, and the public from around the United States to share an overview of the personal stories of the WWII generation. Check out all our World War II Virtual Reality Films in our VR section of the museum's theater.

The International Museum of World War II is very interactive and focused on preserving these stories so that future generations don't forget the sacrifices of all those who served in and survived WWII. It will also impart the hard lessons of war and its cost to society.

The International Museum of World War II's curriculum is built upon the 35 films The World War II Foundation has produced to date for a global television audience, as well as the artifacts of WWII, more than 600 books which chronicle the stories of that generation, and a small theater, seating 35 people, which is a central part of the museum's visual learning component. The International Museum of World War II does not glorify war but focuses on the people and their personal stories during that time.
